Twelve New Accreditations of Supply Chain Education and Training Offerings CSCSC's Accreditations Continue to Increase

July 12, 2010, Mississauga, Ontario – The Canadian Supply Chain Sector Council accredited 12 supply chain-related education and training offerings on June 25 through its National Accreditation Program. Since the program was launched in August 2009, 29 courses and programs have been accredited.

Education and training providers have enthusiastically embraced the NAP for the competitive advantage it provides to them in promoting their offerings. James Polley, Manager of Business and Government Training at the Centre for Education & Training (CET) in Mississauga, Ont., says that, "Recognition through the NAP provides a measure of credibility that goes beyond the quality that already existed in our SAP-SCM course. It says to all that CSCSC has a great deal of belief and confidence in our program." Further, he notes, "It sends a message to members that together we have something very valuable for their careers in supply chain." The CET's SAP-SCM Specialist course is one of the offerings accredited in the most-recent round of reviews.

The newly accredited offerings are:

Information about the National Accreditation Program

The NAP recognizes education and training offerings that meet the Council's Standards for Accreditation, which were created with the assistance of CSA Standards and with significant input from supply chain stakeholders.

The rigorous standards are based on national and international best practices and principles, and include requirements for course/program needs assessment, design, development, delivery, and student evaluation. To be accredited, a course or program must meet all of the standards. It is important to note that education providers themselves are not accredited; it is specific programs or individual courses that are accredited.

Post-secondary institutions, associations and private training schools are eligible to submit their programs and courses for review.

Applications are reviewed four times a year. The deadline for submission in the next round is August 1, 2010. Subsequent deadlines are every three months thereafter. Applications are submitted electronically and are reviewed by the Council's Accreditation Review Panel.

More information about the NAP standards, fees and review process is available on the Council's website, at www.supplychaincanada.org/en/NAP.

The Canadian Supply Chain Sector Council is an all-stakeholder, not-for-profit organization responsible for the human resources strategy for the supply chain sector in Canada. The CSCSC is funded by the Government of Canada's Sector Council Program.
