Two New Accreditations of Supply Chain Programs through National Accreditation Program

December 21, 2010, Mississauga, Ontario – The Canadian Supply Chain Sector Council accredited two supply chain-related college programs on December 17 through its National Accreditation Program. Thirty-six education and training courses and programs are now accredited through the program.

The newly accredited offerings are:

| Provider Name | Offering Title | Course/Program |
|---|---|----------------|
| Conestoga College Institute of Technology & Advanced Learning | Materials and Operations Management Program | Program |
| George Brown College | Supply Chain Management Certificate Program | Program |

A full list of accredited offerings is on the CSCSC website, at www.supplychaincanada.org/en/accreditations.

Information about the National Accreditation Program

The NAP recognizes education and training offerings that meet the Council's Standards for Accreditation, which were created with the assistance of CSA Standards and with significant input from supply chain stakeholders.

The rigorous standards are based on national and international best practices and principles, and include requirements for course/program needs assessment, design, development, delivery, and student evaluation. To be accredited, a course or program must meet all of the standards. It is important to note that education providers themselves are not accredited; it is specific programs or individual courses that are accredited.

Post-secondary institutions, associations and private training schools are eligible to submit their programs and courses for review.

Applications are reviewed four times a year. The deadline for submission in the next round is February 1, 2011. Subsequent deadlines are every three months thereafter. Applications are submitted electronically and are reviewed by the Council's Accreditation Review Panel.
